2014 LOOKBOOK

Welcome back

There's never a dull moment at Granada Tile, and the last few months have been no exception. We've been busy creating new designs and reimagining some of our classics, not to mention helping our clients envision terrific new cement tile installations for countless projects.

We're particularly pleased to re-introduce you to two of our cement tile ranges—the Minis Collection and the Mauresque Collection. Inspired by Moroccan and French tiles, these cement tiles are all about fabulous shapes. Choose from traditional scale and star-and-cross designs or go more contemporary with bold, geometric looks. Not to mention we've added more colors to choose from so you can make your next project distinctly your own.

As always, you can find us on our website (www.granadatile.com) where you can keep tabs on all the latest developments, including new product introductions and lots of photos featuring some of our clients' latest cement tile installations. It's a great place to get lost and get inspired. And speaking of inspiration, you can find out more about cement tile on our Cement Tile Blog (www.granadatile.com/blog/) where we feature projects and exclusive interviews with our clients among other great information. Check us out on Facebook, Twitter and Pinterest, too, to see what we're reading and seeing and how it's inspiring us.

We hope you enjoy this new lookbook and our new designs. It's our pleasure to share them with you.

Minis

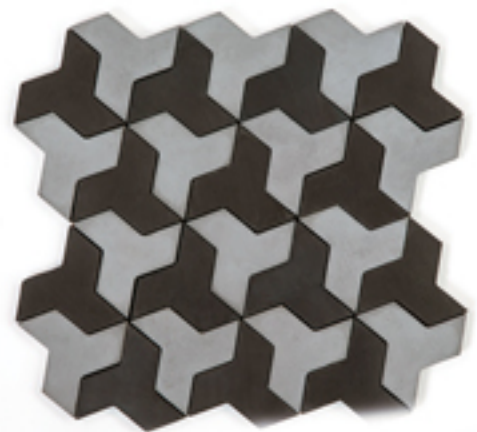

Inspired by classic zelliges— the small decorative tiles found throughout Morocco— Granada Tile's Minis Collection packs a lot of style into a tiny package. Now we've added more great options to dress up your walls. Besides the star-and-cross and scale patterns, the range has expanded to include chic accordion, chevron, discus and kite designs.

What's more, they come in a broader array of colors to make your kitchen, bathroom or any other space pop with character and style. Our Minis Collection of cement tiles also offers a clear advantage over their traditional counterparts: These cement tiles are air-cured rather than kiln-fired making them incredibly environmentally friendly as well as beautiful.

Mauresque

Love the look of French and Moroccan glazed tiles but want something more durable, not to mention more environmentally friendly? Granada Tile's Mauresque Collection of cement tiles is the perfect choice for you, blending fabulous looks and production methods that put the earth first. Featuring two patterns meant exclusively for wall applications—a delicate arabesque design that evokes timeless looks and an elegant scale pattern, the cement tiles come in a rainbow of colors that will look right at home as they grace your backsplashes or walls throughout your living spaces. Try mixing and matching different shades to bring even more sensational style to your next tile installation, whether it's indoors or out.
